GOALS

The Financial Astrology course, by C.E.I.A. Research, aims to provide financial investors - amateurs and professionals - with a new, supplementary and more accurate approach for their market analyses, in terms of cyclical patterns, both in the short and the long run.

The contents of the course is based on the experience and research made by professional astrologer João Medeiros in Mundane (Collective) Astrology over the past two decades.

The main focus of the course will be to present the clear cyclical patterns of the S&P 500 index in the past and to project these trends into the future, in yearly and monthly forecasts, according to planetary and lunar cycles.

As a secondary goal, the course will provide similar forecasts for specific markets such as cryptocurrencies, fiat currencies or others. Exceptionally, prominent companies will be used as case studies.

This approach is about a spiritual and ethical insight of investments, perceived as a way to boost special projects, companies or markets and as a means for individuals to achieve greater financial freedom and abundance.

This course is unique in the world in the special modern and traditional techniques on which it is based and is designed to enable students to understand the major practical conclusions despite having no previous knowledge of Astrology.
